

DR Jamal S. Rana MD

Presently I am the President California American College of Cardiology and serve on the national ACC Board of Governors Steering Committee.

Clinically I am Chief of cardiology at Kaiser Permanente, Eastbay in Northern California. Regarding research, from the time of my research fellowship at Harvard to the present time, I have published extensively in the areas of prevention, lipids, imaging, cardio metabolic disease, and national trends of cardiovascular disease. The journals include NEJM, JAMA, JACC, Circulation, EHJ, and JAMA Cardiology.

I stayed involved in research during my medicine residency, cardiology fellowship at Cedars-Sinai Heart Institute Beverly Hills, and presently as an Adjunct Investigator at the Division of Research Kaiser Permanente. I continue to collaborate and consistently publish with more than 175 peer-reviewed papers to keep up with my scientific inquiry, and I have had the opportunity to give numerous presentations at both national and international scientific conferences.
